

BEAVERS PLANS TO RESUME JOB AS POLICE HEAD

Decision of Court Reinstating Chief Received With Silence in Official Circles.

JETT UNDECIDED ABOUT RETIRING

Mrs. Andrews Declares Decision Is Victory for "Morality and Christianity."

If James L. Beavers, who Friday was exonerated of charges on which he was dismissed in April, 1924, is to encounter opposition in resuming his rank and position, the opposition is yet to develop.

Informed of the decision of the state court of appeals, city officials declined to discuss the matter of his reinstatement, even Beavers' political enemies failing to suggest any new move to block his return as head of the police department.

Mayor Walter A. Sims, who led the fight against Beavers, said he would withhold comment on the decision until he had been officially informed of the court's ruling and had studied the text of the decision carefully.

Board Head Silent.
William B. Hartsfield, chairman of the police committee, which committee of 1924, with a different personnel than the one now in office, fired Beavers—said he did not care to discuss the case at this time.

E. L. Jett, acting chief of police while Beavers has been absent from the department, told The Constitution he had made no decision on the matter of applying for a pension, to which he is entitled by reason of 37 years of continuous service in the police department.

"The court's decision in the Beavers case will have no bearing on what I decide to do," was all he would say.

Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president of the Woman's Civic council and reform leader, whose charges of drunkenness on the floor of city council and misconduct on the part of certain members has stirred a storm of interest, declared that "God is working mighty things in Atlanta."

"The court of appeals is His instrument," she said. "The victory of Chief Beavers is a victory for morality and Christianity. We all have reason to praise God for the fact that he is to return to the helm of the police department."

Plans to Return.
Meanwhile, Beavers was planning to resume his rank of chief when the court of appeals' remittitur reaches Fulton superior court, the original trial tribunal in his case. He issued a statement Friday saying that "if I return as chief I hope to be head of the department in fact as well as in name." Beavers declared he had never been given free reign to run the department according to his own ideas, but had been hindered by the police committee.

Some of Beavers' opponents suggested that since the recent stroke the official probably would be unfit physically to assume the arduous duties of chief and that the pension board might be asked to subject him to an examination. In the event he failed to come up to the standard required, he might be forced to retire on a chief's pension, $2,000 annually.

These persons declined, however, to allow their names to be used in connection with the case. It was pointed out that the pension board has authority to retire with pension any member who has served 25 years.

The board at the present time is composed of B. Graham West, city comptroller; J. H. Ewing, Jr., city controller; Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett, Police Captain A. J. Holcomb and Police Lieutenant A. W. Blazer. They declared that the matter is not yet before them for consideration and that they would not express an opinion.

Augusta Boy Wins Zone Championship In Oratorical Test

Joseph A. Mullarky Wins Honors in Kansas City and Now Goes to Washington, D. C., Finals.

TOUR OF EUROPE ASSURED WINNER

Georgia Boy's Oration on "The Constitution" Wins Him High Honor in Novel Contest.

Joseph A. Mullarky, of Augusta, national oratorical contest representative of Georgia and The Constitution, Friday night won first place in the mid-western zone championship in Kansas City.

Associated Press dispatches Friday night brought information that other zone contestants, in the order in which they finished, are Carl Albert, McAlester, Okla., representing the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman; John Cariano, Seattle, Wash., representing the Seattle Times; Webb Lillmore, Kansas City, representing the Kansas City Star; Morris Olson, Fargo, N. Dak., representing Territory "X."

The victory of Mr. Mullarky, who is a student of Richmond academy and a member of a widely-known and prominent Augusta family, now will carry him into the national finals to be held in Washington June 4. In this event the Georgia boy will compete with other zone champions.

Wins European Trip.
As a prize for winning the mid-western zone championship, Mr. Mullarky will receive a three months' tour of Europe with all expenses paid. If he is successful in the national event he will compete in Europe with champion orators of Canada, Mexico, Great Britain, France and Germany.

Mr. Mullarky won the Georgia championship in Atlanta last week when he ran first in a field of eleven speakers representing as many congressional districts in this state. The speaker for the remaining district was ill and unable to attend the state event. Mr. Mullarky represents the tenth Georgia congressional district.

As a state prize he received $100 in gold offered by The Constitution, which is sponsoring the contest in this state. Aubrey Landerdale, of LaGrange, last year's state champion, won second place and $20 offered by The Constitution.

In addition, The Constitution gave each of the twelve district winners a prize of $15, and Draughton's Business college gave each of them a free scholarship.

The championship of the mid-western zone, which Mr. Mullarky won Friday night, covers a territory extending from Seattle down through Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Oklahoma and Georgia.

Spoke on "Constitution."
In winning this title, Mr. Mullarky delivered a ten-minute oration on "The Constitution," original with the Augusta school youth. It was the same delivered here in the state capital during the state contest when judges and spectators were stirred to enthusiastic comment by the excellence of its construction and the effectiveness of its delivery.

The oration was a brilliant exposition of the methods and evolution of America's government, and it was delivered with impressive bearing and in the tones of a natural orator.

Seven zone championships were held simultaneously Friday night, at which time winners were selected who will compete with Mr. Mullarky in the national finals. Judges in this event in Washington will be Chief Justice William Howard Taft and two other justices of the United States supreme court.

In the United States, the contest is sponsored by the American Bar association and 26 newspapers, of which number The Constitution is one. Randolph Leigh, of Washington, is director of the national contest.

M. E. CONFERENCE QUILTS IN UPROAR OVER LAY VOTING

Four Articles of Church Constitution Adopted, But Explosion Occurs on Voting Question.

EFFORT TO CHANGE NAME VOTED DOWN

Delegate Provokes Storm By Statement That Delegates Who Attend Are Not Worth Shooting.

METHODISTS WILL ELECT NO BISHOPS THIS YEAR

Memphis, Tenn., May 14.—(P)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will elect no new bishops this session if it follows the recommendation of the episcopacy committee. Always in the past the decisions of the committee have prevailed in the conferences.

In an executive session which began at 3 o'clock today and lasted until 10 o'clock tonight, the committee passed the characters of all bishops, continued all bishops in active service, and decided that no new bishops should be elected at this session of the general conference.

Memphis, Tenn., May 14.—(P)—The Methodist Episcopal church, south, has a part of a constitution. A fight over lay representation and voting power in annual conferences halted the adoption of the complete document here today by the general conference of the church and the meeting adjourned with Rev. Basil Anthony, of Thomasville, Ga., making a last-minute effort to compromise the matter.

Section five, article five, dealing with annual conferences and reading "the clerical and lay members shall deliberate in one body but upon call of one-third of either class lay and clerical members shall vote separately on all matters except in the organization of the conference, the election of officers, and such matters as involve ministerial character," was the stumbling block which stopped consideration of the proposed constitution today.

Preceding the explosion over lay and clerical voting, which delegates say is a unification-anti-unification fight, the conference experienced a small flurry over changing the phrase "Holy Catholic church" in the creed to "God's Universal church." Efforts to have the change made met with sharp opposition and the conference compromised on putting a footnote in the discipline explaining that "Holy Catholic church" does not mean the Roman Catholic church.

Adopted Without Debate.
With the exception of that one change the first four articles of the constitution were adopted without argument. These articles outline the beliefs of the church, the name of the church, rules governing membership and conditions under which ministers are ordained.

S. P. Cresap, Nebraska City, Neb., moved that the section giving laymen and clerical delegates separate voting power in annual conferences be stricken out. He then made a 15-minute speech, suffered a dozen or more interruptions and questions, and sat down amid applause and shouts of "no, no."

Dr. C. C. Jarrell, Atlanta, Ga., offered a substitute which would make the measures read "upon two-thirds vote by either the lay or clerical delegates the two classes could vote separately. This was promptly voted on the table.

Anthony's Compromise.
Rev. Mr. Anthony then offered his compromise measure, which would have limited the voting by orders to constitutional matters.

By the time Rev. Mr. Anthony was half through his speech the conference was in a turmoil, a dozen or more delegates shouting at the bishop in an effort to get his attention, while others stood and talked without having been recognized. Bishop James Cannon, presiding, rapped sharply for order and adjourned the conference, as the time limit had been reached.

The conference tomorrow will go ahead with consideration of the constitution.

LOYAL TROOPS FORCE FIGHTING IN POLICE CAPITAL

Marshal Pilsudskia National Hero, Fights Desperately Against Army Surrounding Warsaw.

CASUALTIES HEAVY IN TWO-DAY BATTLE

Situation Serious as Lithuanians Invade Vilna And Rumania Increases Garrison.

Warsaw, May 15.—(Saturday)—Marshal Josef Pilsudski's troops are fighting desperately against an army which is fast surrounding Warsaw. The death toll in the battle, which is being waged with increasing intensity, has been given out officially as 90, making a total of 170 dead in two days of warfare, but unofficial conservative estimates place the number of dead nearer 300.

The minister of war in the Witos cabinet is in personal charge of operations directed against the revolutionists. His leading generals are General Sikorski and General Stanislaw Haller. Sikorski is attempting to defeat the Pilsudski troops in the suburbs, while Haller is concentrating against the war guard of the Pilsudski forces.

With few exceptions, the country districts have rallied to the government. The Pilsudski troops in the suburbs of Warsaw are in six airplanes. While he is moving for peace, the Witos cabinet, led by its minister of war, sent directions by courier for mobilization of four army corps.

Envoys Ask Peace.
President Wojciechowski has sent envoys to Pilsudski to ask that negotiations for peace be opened to prevent further bloodshed. Wojciechowski and his ministers fled to the president's private home in the suburbs of Warsaw in six airplanes.

An eyewitness late Friday night said that the position of Pilsudski was becoming more precarious hourly. Pilsudski has issued a statement in which he claims enthusiastic cooperation from various parts of the country. The statement claims that army corps have telegraphed their intention to rally to Pilsudski's assistance. Pilsudski ascribes the resumption of hostilities around Warsaw to "the enemy's maltreatment of patients in the hospitals and violation of corpses."

Pilsudski Statement.
Pilsudski has issued, through his organ, the newspaper "Droga," a statement of policy which follows:

1. Establishment of a government for restoration of the state's authority.

2. Surrender to the Sejm—the Polish house of representatives—of complete powers, including legislative powers, to the government.

3. Dissolution of the Sejm.

4. An immediate general election.

5. Administrative reforms including a fight against corruption in public office.

6. Continuance of the present Polish foreign policy.

Insistence of Pilsudski's policy as from a virtual dictator followed capture of the presidential palace at Belvedere Friday morning. Reports that several members of the Witos cabinet were captured were unverified.

Pilsudski began at once the fortification of Warsaw against counter attacks from the armies loyal to Witos. Machine guns were placed on all the more important public buildings and cavalry troops patrolled the city.

Troops with rifles stacked camped outside the foreign office where Pilsudski and his foreign minister, Romanowski, conducted affairs of state. The people of Warsaw remained indoors under threat of trouble if they appeared on the streets.

110-Year-Old Woman Seeks Job in Mill

Declares She Was Champion Spinner 90 Years Ago.

Tulsa, Okla., May 14.—(P)—Mrs. Susan Paige, said by relatives to be 110 years old, declared today she was going to apply for a job as a weaver at the Sand Springs Cotton mill. Some 90 years ago, when almost every American home wore its own cloth, "Grandma Susan" said she was acclaimed one of the most expert weavers in all the country around Bowling Green, Ky. She thinks modern machinery has not entirely eliminated the need of a weaver of the old school in a cotton mill like the one here.

"Grandma Susan" arrived from California a few days ago for a visit with relatives. She made the journey in a small automobile with her son, William Paige. They camped out along the route.

ENGLAND MOVES TO BAN FUTURE GENERAL STRIKES

Railway Men and Printers Sign Agreements Working To This End With Employers.

MINER WALKOUT SETTLEMENT NEAR

National Leaders Seek To Have All Unions Sign Agreements Ending General Strikes.

BY CHARLES M. MCCANN.

London, May 14.—Future general strikes in England have been made improbable, if not impossible, by agreements signed Friday by railwaymen and printers with their employers.

While England, with cooling temper, settled down to work and a speedy ending of the wrangling which has engrossed government, labor and employers for the better part of two weeks, important conferences between miners, railwaymen and employers were going on in various offices in London.

Premier Stanley Baldwin was meeting with miners and mine owners at separate conferences and making proposals which held high hope for a settlement of the mine strike within a short time.

Agreements signed between railwaymen and their employers and between printers and their employers were taken as sounding the death knell of any more general strikes. Both groups of workers promised never to strike again without first negotiating.

This was seen as a blow at the whole idea of a general strike, as such a movement to be successful must come almost without warning.

Virtual return to normalcy in English industry by Monday is promised by the accomplishments of Friday. There is reason to hope that the miners will agree to proposals made by Baldwin and that the mine strike will be ended by Monday.

There is reason to hope that the miners will agree to proposals made by Baldwin and that the mine strike will be ended by Monday. There is reason to hope that the miners will agree to proposals made by Baldwin and that the mine strike will be ended by Monday.

1. A further government subsidy to be spread over an indefinite period and amounting to $15,000,000.

2. A government pledge that it will attempt to pass four bills in this session of the parliament which will make effective the royal coal commission's report regarding amalgamations of mines and provide a welfare levy—a special tax—on royalties owned by the mines.

3. Promises of restriction of recruiting for the mines.

4. Establishment of a national board similar to that existing in the railways industry.

5. Acceptance by miners of certain wage cuts and negotiations with owners as to workers' hours.

The miners' delegates will convene again at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners' executives, said Friday night that Baldwin's proposals must be submitted to the mine workers themselves before any decision can be made. Whether or not the delegates at Saturday's meeting will accept Cook's word as final is unknown.

Staunch Republican.
In Senator Pepper the state has a representative who has staunchly supported the policies of the republican administration at Washington. During his four years of service in the senate he has been consistent in his support of the principles proclaimed in our party's platform of 1920 and 1924. He has stood loyally by the administration in its efforts to carry out the pledges of the party, and he enjoys the confidence and esteem of his constituents.

Close Contact Seen.
The Pennsylvania contest, according to most observers, will be close. Vere has been seeking votes on a wet platform and Pinchot on a bone-dry platform. Pepper, who declares himself a Coolidge dry, has sought to make the issue one of standing by Coolidge. He has had the backing of the powerful Mellon interests in western Pennsylvania and Mellon's personal appearance here Friday night was intended as a final dramatic climax to emphasize the Coolidge-Mellon support behind Pepper.

HANCOCK CONVICTS GET HOLIDAY WHEN ALL GUARDS STRIKE
Sparta, Ga., May 14.—(Special)—The convicts in the Hancock county chancery had a holiday yesterday as the guards today on account of a "strike" staged by every guard in the camp.

According to reports, the guards, about six in number, became enraged because one of the road machine men was dismissed and all immediately notified Warden Cheely that they would not work any longer. The warden locked all of the convicts in the steel portable cages and got busy securing more men.

It is thought all of the vacant positions on the force will be filled soon and work resumed.

Giggling at Prayer Meeting Brings Three Girls to Court

"We powdered our noses while kneeling and giggled a little, I guess," said the girls in defense. "It was kind of funny, powdering our noses while at prayer. Well, the sexton told us to be quiet, so we did not stay much longer."

"We powdered our noses while kneeling and giggled a little, I guess," said the girls in defense.

"I wrote on a piece of paper, 'Let's go,'" said Gladys, "and passed it to Bertha and Agnes. So we left. It isn't true that we cut up something terrible."

"I'll put this case over 30 days," said Judge Todd. "Let's see how these girls act in the future."

What happened to the girls when they got home was not reported in court.

LOUISVILLE GETS NEXT CONVENTION OF DIXIE BAPTISTS

Report of Relief and Annuity Board Is Adopted. Memorial Services Are Conducted.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, MAY 14.—(P)—

Section of Louisville, Ky., as the next convention city, adoption of the relief and annuity board's report, raising of the minimum for relief of superannuated or disabled southern ministers and adoption of other minor reports constituted the chief business transacted by Southern Baptists here today.

Memorial services were conducted for two former vice presidents of the convention who died during the year. Dr. B. F. Riley, of Birmingham, was eulogized by Rev. J. E. Dillard, pastor of the Riley family, and Dr. W. L. Lantry, of Louisville, Ky., by Dr. Henry Alfred Porter, of St. Louis, whose eulogy, however, was read by Rev. Dillard.

The report of the interboard commission on student activities presented by Frank H. Leavell, of Memphis, legislative secretary, said that the commission is now sponsoring a definite program among the 90,000 Baptist college students of the south with the hope of developing them into trained church workers.

The convention hopes to finish its business sessions by Saturday night. Outstanding in the report yet to be made is that of the social service committee, which is expected to cover conditions in the south and probably may draw attention to divorce and prohibition.

H. S. Sturgis, of Brooksville, Fla., reported more than three days and three nights out of Spitzbergen, the North Pole, if it is still aloft, is nearing a record for sustained flight. It carried enough for 3,000 miles although the distance from Kilauea, Bay to Nome is only 2,000. This would allow for some unanticipated exploring, but would not carry the ship far from the coast.

Other stations at Nome, Alaska, Cordova and far down the coast into the United States were signaling constantly without a single reply to encourage them since the last brief message, "bound for Nome," was picked up at St. Paul 40 hours ago.

RADIO STATIONS FAIL TO LOCATE GIANT DIRIGIBLE

Wind-Driven Snow Hampers Efforts of Operators To Get Into Touch With Missing Ship.

NOME CONFIDENT NORGE CREW SAFE

Natives Believe Veteran Explorer Is Making Extensive Observations Over Polar Wastes.

Weather Hazards Increased With the Passing Hours and Radio Men Said the Wind-driven Snow which began falling at noon had further hampered their attempts to communicate with the ship, which is now more than a day overdue at Nome.

Ronald Amundsen's luck and his habit of "hiding out" to complete extended observations became the hope of the natives who were waiting patiently to hail his arrival as the end of man's first trip over the top of the world.

But old-timers looked at the falling barometer and shook their heads. It was almost certain that severe storms were raging out over the Arctic ocean where the expedition's ship was presumably sailing.

No Contact Established.
The long arms of radio were reaching into the north as never before with every station large or small hoping its efforts would be of assistance to the Norge and its crew of 17 men whether they were on land or still flying.

The government broadcasting plant at St. Paul, which was first and last to pick up a signal from the dirigible since it crossed the great "blind spot" on its flight from Spitzbergen, tried in vain to reestablish the contact.

Fulton Follies

Draws Big Crowd To Lakewood

BY ALBERT HARDY, JR.
While surrounding hills and terraces reverberated to the applause of nearly 4,000 onlookers at Lakewood park Friday night, students of Fulton High school launched their pre-commencement festivities with the "Fulton Follies," a tuneful, syncopated musical comedy revue in which more than 100 talented undergraduates and alumni participated. The production was the first held on the new stage in front of the grandstand at Lakewood park since it was built by the Southeastern Fair association and opened for the free use of schools, civic and fraternal orders for benefit entertainments. A novel arrangement of lighting effects, similar in principle to those used for the St. Louis amphitheater where the annual season of summer light operas are held there, supplemented the usual curtains and drops. Reversed footlights with a system of spotlights obscured the stage from the view of the audience during changes in scenes while affording sufficient illumination for the amateur stage crews.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 14.—(AP)—Howard Hogan, son of Jim Hogan, notorious counterfeiter, killed here in 1919 in a gun fight in which Paul Gotfried, St. Paul detective was fatally wounded, was arrested here today on a charge of making spurious money.

An outfit for manufacturing counterfeit dollars and half dollars was seized in Hogan's home.

Officers said they found Hogan's 10-year-old daughter watching over an oven in which coins were being baked.

FINAL RITES HELD FOR CHARLES LEACH

Funeral services for Charles Homer Leach, 42, of 126 Confederate avenue, who Wednesday night murdered Mrs. Flora Noles on Briarcliff road and then ended his own life by taking a quantity of poison, were held Friday afternoon from the home, Rev. J. D. Mine officiated and interment was in Sylvester cemetery.

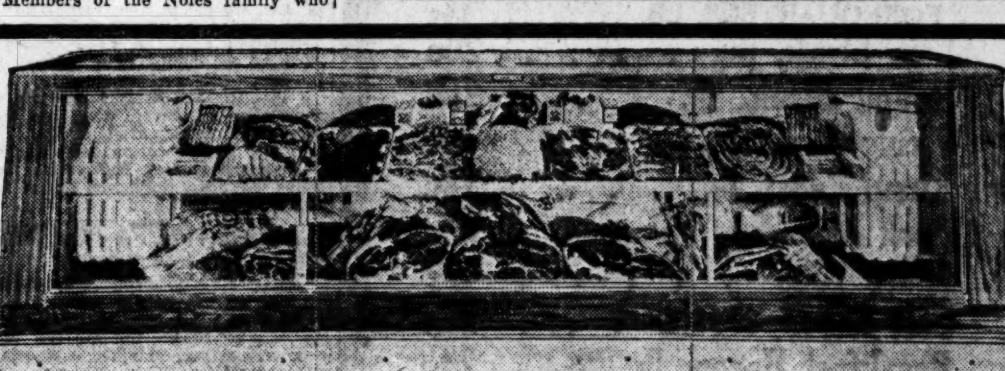

Members of the Noles family who were in Texas at the time of the tragedy, were delayed in Birmingham, Ala., because of a train wreck and funeral services for Mrs. Flora Noles had not been completed late Friday night. It is probable that the body will be taken to Lawrenceville, Ga., where Mrs. Noles is in the Awtry & Lowndes undertaking parlors.

TECH DEBATE LOSE TO MERCER SPEAKERS

Mercer university's undefeated debating team added another victory to its list Friday night in the Tech Y. M. C. A. auditorium when Georgia Tech debaters were defeated. Two of the judges voted for Mercer and only one vote was recorded for Tech.

Resolved, That congress should establish a separate department of air service was the subject, and the Mercer team, represented by C. A. Martin and Millard Townsend, had the affirmative side.

Tech's team, composed of Owen Pool and W. L. Gordy, had the negative side of the question.

Judges of the debate were Francis Simkins, of Emory university; Louis P. Marquardt, secretary-treasurer of the United Trust company, and Hadson Johnson, well-known local attorney.

90 ARE KILLED IN WARSAW BATTLE.

Posen, May 15.—(Saturday).—

Ninety were killed and 240 wounded in the fighting which continued Friday night outside of Warsaw, according to an official communique issued by the Witos cabinet early Saturday morning.

This puts the total number of dead, as given out officially, at 170, as 80 were killed in the fighting in Warsaw Thursday. It is generally assumed that the death list is nearer 300.

Fresh reinforcements for the Sikorski forces are arriving hourly at Ochota, a suburb of Warsaw, and the biggest battle of the revolution is expected within the next 12 hours.

VILNA INVADED BY LITHUANIANS.

Berlin, May 14.—The Berliner Tageblatt's correspondent in Breslau reports that Lithuanians have begun an invasion of Vilna.

RUMANIA REPORTED INCREASING GARRISON.

Bucharest, May 14.—Rumania is reported to be preparing to reinforce the Rumanian garrisons near the Polish town of Podolowiczyska.

CABINET FLEES IN PLANE. REPORT.

Paris, May 14.—(AP)—The speculation of the president of the Polish republic and his legally constituted cabinet leaving Warsaw by airplane for Posen to continue the fight against Marshal Pilsudski, while fighting is going on at the gates of Warsaw between the forces of Pilsudski and those of the government general, Halter, is offered tonight by sketchy and conflicting dispatches from Prague, Vienna, Berlin and Polish frontier points.

Private advices reaching Berlin are that Pilsudski has issued a proclamation setting forth that the insurrection is not directed against President Wojciechowski, but simply against the government of Premier Witos and that he does not purpose to change the Polish constitution.

Vilna and Lodz are reported to have been taken by the Pilsudski forces, and apparently he is receiving strong support from certain workmen's organizations. Strikes are reported to have been proclaimed at numerous points to hinder the passage of government troops.

LODZ OCCUPIED BY INSURGENT TROOPS.

(Copyright 1920 The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Warsaw, May 14.—The 35th Infantry has declared for Marshal Pilsudski, the dictator of Warsaw, and has occupied Lodz, the second city of Poland, 75 miles southwest of the capital.

The 22d Infantry with other infantry detachments totaling about 2,000 men together with about two-thirds of Poland's artillery batteries and machine gun companies are fortifying Warsaw under the direction of Pilsudski's general staff.

Labor headquarters in Warsaw has proclaimed a general strike in favor of Pilsudski and is facilitating the movement of friendly troops from other parts of Poland toward Warsaw, delaying the movement of government forces.

A decisive battle impends probably to the southeast of Warsaw. The government claims that it has four army corps, but the strength of Pilsudski is increasing rapidly. The government is trying to prevent his swift accession of troops. Today it blew up the bridge on the Warsaw road over the Bug river in an effort to stop the Bialystok garrison troops from joining Pilsudski in Warsaw. Government troops have turned back 350 Cracow policemen under arms on the way to join the Warsaw dictator.

The government is gathering its forces from Pomerania and Posen under General Sikorski and from Galicia under General Halter. Their location is not clear in the capital.

Fighting is continuing in the Warsaw district particularly on the road from the capital to Belvedere where the president and the cabinet took refuge. The dead now are reported to total 300 and about 1,200 have been taken to hospitals with wounds.

PILSUDSKI SOUGHT TO BE KING. REPORT.

Vienna, May 14.—A report reaching Vienna today states that Marshal Josef Pilsudski wanted to become king of Poland.

The greatest concern and anxiety is being felt by Poland's small neighbors. Czechoslovakia is displaying concern and has called the Warsaw council and rushed troops to Besarabia during the night, fearing the soviets may choose this time to occupy Besarabia.

A report from Trieste states that Premier Mussolini conferred for several hours with the Polish minister who asked for intervention for Poland. Premier Mussolini is supposed to have promised help to the Witos government.

SIKORSKI WARNS OF RUSSIAN MOVES.

Lemberg, Poland, May 14.—General Sikorski, Marshal Josef Pilsudski's main opponent, who controls the bulk of the troops in the Lemberg district, issued a proclamation to the population and the army warning them of the danger of a Russian invasion.

"The Russian army has organized monstrous maneuvers along the borders," the proclamation states. "Unless the Polish nation remains true to the government, the soviet Russians will cross the border and invade the country."

200 REPORTED KILLED IN BATTLE.

Paris, May 14.—(AP)—The position of Marshal Pilsudski is reported to be critical in a Havas dispatch received by way of Berlin, quoting the Warsaw newspaper, Mierkische Ostrauer Morgenzeitung. This dispatch says that Pilsudski has been obliged to contend with government troops in the interior of the city and those coming from outside.

The fighting was particularly fierce last night and this afternoon, and it is estimated that 200 were killed and about 1,000 wounded.

Pilsudski offered to negotiate this morning on condition that the Witos cabinet resign, but the ministry, with the approval of the president, refused.

MOODY RAPS SINNERS AS REVIVAL BEGINS

Declaring that Christians "illuminate the world," George E. Moody, noted Tennessee evangelist, preaching Friday night before a congregation which overflowed the big canvas tabernacle, at Parks, Peters and

REV. GEORGE E. MOODY.

Whitehall streets, urged his hearers to make an example of themselves as the world's impression of Christianity is it is exemplified in "Christians shine because the light shines within them. There never will be much light radiate from one unless the light is burning inside. There are some people here tonight in whom the light has gone out. Some folks have about as much shine in their lives as an old tallow candle, or smoky lamp. That's about all there is to some church folks. The hardest thing in the world is to try to be a Christian without Christ," he declared.

"There are church members in this town whom the world cannot tell whether they are for or against Christ and that is the reason the devil is having a picnic instead of being in the hospital. Too many people want to be a good God-good devil sort—playing both ends and losing. The church needs to develop deeper regard for their souls."

"A church should be a refuge for the homeless but if an old bum seeking Jesus Christ on any other day except Sunday, should get into our modern church he would have to knock the door down and break our air windows. Then the board of trustees would have him arrested for burglary. Make your church what it should be," Rev. Moody pleaded.

Services will be held every night at 7:30 o'clock at the canvas tabernacle. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. The song service is being directed by Aldar Louisy, noted evangelistic singer.

Cottage prayer meetings are being held in the homes of various church members from 9 to 9:30 o'clock daily.

'The Backslapper' Proves Feature Comedy Offering

"The Backslapper," a comedy in three acts, proved Friday night at the Woman's auditorium to be an entering vehicle for the annual offering by the Marionettes of Georgia Tech. The play will be repeated tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Once again the versatile youth of our modern day showed Atlanta that there is nothing impossible for its ambitions. The scenery was designed, constructed and painted by Tech students, the play was directed, rehearsed and produced by Tech and there were Tech boys exclusively in the cast.

That's the big point about these Marionette productions. They don't allow any outsiders to perform and, of course, there are always some feminine roles in the play. Friday night there were four such roles and four modern youths, perforce, distorted themselves in high heels, silk hose, abbreviated skirts, boyish bob wigs, etc.

The four "girls" in the cast who succeeded frequently in a perfect illusion—particularly in the "love scenes"—are Newton Manney, Harold Williams, Walter Jones and William May. Harold Williams was the "lovely blonde leading lady."

The male lead was taken acceptably by William Scherffus, president of the Marionette club and one of its most distinguished members of recent years.

Others in the cast, all of whom performed with all credit, were Douglas Barthelmess, George Harrell, Myron Underwood, Landon Lane, Mitchell, Julian Hiley, Corn Sheppard, Tom McCutcheon, Lewis Froshin, Jimmie Robeson and Wesley Greene.

All in all it was a highly successful affair and, fortunately, it is to be repeated tonight. So those who regret this morning that they have not seen it can remedy the oversight by presenting themselves at the box office at the Woman's club tonight before the curtain rises at 8:30.

Adding to the enjoyment of the evening, is the work of the Marionette orchestra in the interludes and, a quartet on the stage, part of the cast, have several opportunities for effective harmonizing.

These Marionettes of Georgia Tech are an institution in Atlanta. Their annual performances are eagerly awaited, they are never disappointing and they are remembered with pleasure as unique incidents in the local theatrical year.

COOLIDGE VETOES FIRST 1926 BILL

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, May 14.—The high degree of harmony that has existed between President Coolidge and this congress is emphasized by the fact that his first veto came Friday on a minor private bill.

This measure authorized the president to reappoint Chester A. Rothwell to be a captain in the army engineer corps, he having been discharged honorably after the army efficiency board held him to be inefficient. The president refused to approve the act on the ground that army morale would be weakened if the findings of the efficiency board were overruled by congress.

With this exception, every bill that has been sent to the white house by congress has been approved. This record does not represent altogether unqualified victory for the white house but it does reveal an ability on the part of the president to accommodate himself to what congress, for the main part, gives him.

For instance, Coolidge did not like the tax reduction bill in its final form because it cut $70,000,000 more from the annual revenues than the president thought wise. He did not like the $20,000,000 Spanish war veteran pension expenditure but felt obliged to sign it because there was not a single vote in congress against the bill and furthermore because he thought the Spanish war veterans had been less generously treated than survivors of other wars.

Neither does he like some aspects of the railroad labor bill which is now on his desk, fearing that railroad executives and employees might combine to raise wages and pass them on to the public. But he probably will sign it.

House Approves Vital Section Of Haugen Bill

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—One of the vital sections of the Haugen farm relief bill, that embodying a plan for stabilizing the prices of six basic agricultural commodities, was approved today by the house.

Efforts were made by a score of members to amend the provision but it was adopted as written by the agriculture committee.

After the last amendment had been rejected the other outstanding section of the measure, that providing for the levying of an equalization fee was read, and the house adjourned over the week-end. Amendments to this section will be in order when consideration of the bill is resumed on Tuesday.

JOHN R. HANBY FOUND GUILTY IN TAX CASE

McElreath Heads New Historical Society of City

Walter McElreath, Atlanta attorney, was elected president of the Atlanta Historical society at the first election of officers held Friday night at the Ansley hotel. Miss Ruth Blair, director of the state department of archives and history, was named secretary-treasurer of the new society.

Election of other officers was not made at the Friday night meeting, and will not be elected until a charter is applied for and received, after which a constitution and by-laws will be submitted for adoption by the members.

All residents of Atlanta, together with those who have friends here and are interested in historical facts concerning the city, its growth and development, are eligible for membership in the society. Dues will be $5 annually for active members, and $10 each year for sustaining members.

Several prominent Atlantans spoke at the meeting, including W. D. Thompson, of Emory university, who stated it was possible that authorities of the school would give the Atlanta Historical society space in the new Emory library for the preservation of historical data compiled from time to time.

The meeting was in charge of Joel Hunter, temporary chairman of the society until Mr. McElreath was elected and he then was given charge.

When the organization is completed Atlantans who have in their possession valuable information concerning Atlanta, will be asked to aid the new society in recording any valuable information that will be of interest to present and future generations, it is said.

NATIONAL PARK BILL APPROVED

Washington, May 14.—(P)—The house today passed a senate bill providing for establishing of Shenandoah National park in Virginia, and Great Smoky Mountain National park in North Carolina-Tennessee.

The house also passed a senate bill to provide for establishment of Mammoth Cave National park in Kentucky. It now goes to the white house.

BEAVERS STATU'S STILL UNCERTAIN

ion until it officially came to them for consideration.

It is expected that Acting Chief Jett will offer his resignation at once and accept a pension on chief's pay. There have been persistent rumors that this course would be taken by Chief Jett. It developed Friday, however, that it might not be legal for an "acting chief" to be allowed to resign and accept the chief's pension. Legal authorities were divided over whether this could be done.

Chief Beavers Friday issued a statement expressing deep gratification at the court's action and stating that "if he returns as chief" he hopes to be chief in fact as well as in name, with power to conduct the department as he sees fit. This, he claims, he has never been allowed to do.

Original Charges.
Charges against Chief Beavers were brought by Ed Inman, chairman of the police committee in 1924, who has since resigned. In one of the charges it was stated that Chief Beavers had failed to pay visits "at unusual hours" to policemen on duty as required by city ordinances. In a second count he was charged with violating administrative features of this same ordinance. The third count charged the chief with undue activity in gathering evidence in a divorce case, and the fourth count charged him with filing a false affidavit concerning his ability to pay court costs.

Conviction on the latter two points was not sustained by Fulton superior court. The court of appeals held that the ordinance requiring the visits at "unusual hours" to policemen on duty was vague and indefinite and that there was insufficient evidence to prove that Chief Beavers had violated it. The decision reversed a decision rendered in the Fulton superior court by Judge George L. Bell upholding legality of the police committee's action in removing the chief.

JAMES L. BEAVERS.

ter and ordinances of the city of Atlanta were not legally disqualified because of prejudice or bias to sit in the trial of the chief of police for alleged violations of ordinances or rules, as was contended by attorney for the deposed official. The higher court based its decision largely on its opinion that there was no evidence brought to show that Chief Beavers had violated the ordinances as charged by the police committee, even if the ordinances were valid.

Language of Court.
The decision centered around that part of the charges made against Chief Beavers to the effect that he had failed to make inspections required by the ordinance in question.

In discussing this ordinance the court of appeals declared:
"The rule of the police department providing that the chief of police visit as often as possible various portions of the city that he may be able to know of his own knowledge, that the officers and men are performing their duties in terms to be capable of literal enforcement."

Judge R. C. Bell, of the court of appeals, in writing the opinion, discussed the alleged violation of the rule by Chief Beavers as follows:
"A penal law which is so doubtful of construction and in which the act denominated as a crime is described in terms so general and indefinite as to make the question of criminality dependent upon the idiosyncrasies of the men who happen to constitute the court and jury, and is of such a nature that honest and intelligent men are unable to ascertain what particular act it seeks to condemn, is incapable of enforcement and will be held null and void."

Evidence Insufficient.
The court ruled that the evidence did not show that Chief Beavers was guilty of any of the charges brought against him. Charge No. 3 in connection with his alleged activity in obtaining evidence in a divorce case was not sustained before the committee. The other three charges upon which he was convicted were not upheld by the court of appeals on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence brought out to prove Chief Beavers guilty.

George C. Spence, of the law firm of Spence, C. Spence, counsel for Chief Beavers, issued a statement Friday in which he declared that the decision of the court of appeals was a complete vindication of the position taken in the controversy by Chief Beavers.

His statement follows:
"I have never had the slightest doubt of the legal merits of the case. Everybody has known that Beavers was innocent of wrongdoing, and that the charges against him were trumped up for the purpose of ousting him. His enemies have never hoped to beat him in the courts, but they thought they could illegally use their power to muzzle his defense so expensive and troublesome that he would get tired and quit."

Alludes to Former Statement.
"In the first statement I made in this case three years ago, I said: 'In spite of the contemptuous disregard this committee has shown for the law, and their factious references to the protection the courts may afford Chief Beavers, they will find in the end that the law and courts will be sufficient to prevent their attempt to seize the police power of Atlanta.'"

"As a lawyer, I take great pride in pointing out that four different judges of our superior court, the supreme court of Georgia, and the court of appeals of Georgia, have heard this case on a number of occasions, and notwithstanding the insidiousness of Chief Beavers' enemies, our courts have been able to see that the law afforded adequate protection to him.

"The power of newspapers for good government is also strikingly shown in this case. At every stage the newspapers have been ready to print every word we had to say without cost. We could never have prevailed without the moral backing of the best people in Atlanta. The very media men have had this without the great service of the newspapers."

"Six members of the police committee who have fought Beavers have closed their public service. Three have resigned, two have been beaten at the polls. I think it takes no prophet to believe none of them will ever again hold office in Atlanta."

Charges Unfairness.
"I have fought longer and harder battles, but never one so unfairly waged. But there are always compensations—the very savagery of the attack on this faithful public servant; the conviction of the entire force (from this list), but the law has been constantly violated as to the method of placing men on the list, and frequently men have been advised of the force, and that the committee had agreed to reject every one out their man. I refused to nominate him, they elected him anyway, even after the city attorney had ruled in writing that the election was illegal."

"The selection of men to be put on the supernumerary list is an important matter, and the law has been constantly violated as to the method of placing men on the list, and frequently men have been advised of the force, and that the committee had agreed to reject every one out their man. I refused to nominate him, they elected him anyway, even after the city attorney had ruled in writing that the election was illegal."

"The net result of all this is to make the men just respect for the authority of the chief, and look alone to the committee for favors. All this is contrary to the law, which says that they elected him anyway, even after the city attorney had ruled in writing that the election was illegal."

Crux of Dispute.
"This is the crux of the row between me and the committee. They have wanted to run the details of the department because it gives them great political power; and I would let them do it so long as I am chief, because, first, it is contrary to the law, and, secondly, because I know the department can't be run by a political committee without destroying discipline and the respect of the men for the authority of the chief and his officers."

"I have no personal animosity towards any man in the department. They are nearly all my friends; they have stood by me loyally, as far as they could possibly be expected when they knew that it might mean the loss of their jobs. There is no more faithful bunch of men in the service of the city, and they can be made into an efficient police force the moment the chief is made chief in fact as well as in name."

"If I go back as chief, I ask only to be allowed to run the department as everyone knows the law provides. I wish to answer another slander against me. It has been frequently charged that I want to make unnecessary war on unfortunate women. Every friend I have knows that this is false. I have the deepest sympathy for such people. I have never been unmindful of their sorrows and wrongs and helplessness. I closed the red light houses because these unfortunate women were being upbraided by preyed upon by the forces of graft and greed, and these same forces were seeking to make me the collector of their unholy loot."

"I have no way to thank the thousands of loyal friends who have stood so constantly by me, and I have no adequate way to recompense my able and faithful lawyers—the victory is more theirs than mine; but all would have been useless if the newspapers had not used their powerful influence to support me. They shall all have my gratitude always."

the many divisions of the work to be done. This is true in every business or organization. I have never been allowed to assign the men, but have at all times been compelled, for one reason or another, to work men who were elected and assigned by the police committee to particular work. This is exactly contrary to the law in the city code.

Checked By Committee.

northern Alaska, which may have blocked the ship from Nome and forced her descent either along the coast or in the interior.

ALL STATIONS HELP IN SEARCH FOR NORGE

Cordova, Alaska, May 14.—(P)—Army and navy radio stations in Alaska, which have kept a long vigil in searching the ether for word from the dirigible Norge, renewed their efforts to get into communication with the airship tonight. Instructions issued today at Fairbanks directed all United States signal corps radio stations to maintain an unceasing watch for signals from the Norge. All Alaska towns were asked to keep alert in the fear that the big craft might be disabled with its radio out of commission.

When news of the hop-off of the Norge from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, was received four days ago all the navy radio stations in Alaska were ordered to listen in carefully for messages from the airship.

Great interest was shown, the chief radio man in charge of various stations remaining up all night to give their personal supervision in an endeavor to make contact with the Norge, said an official statement issued here today, detailing the part played by the navy radio service.

"On the night of the 12th Clayton Williams, chief radio man in charge of the St. Paul station, L. S. Kobell, radio man, first-class, at St. Paul, and J. H. Dobson, chief radio man in charge of the United States naval radio compass station on Hinchbrook Island, heard the Norge simultaneously at 11 o'clock, San Francisco time, the statement said.

Report Two Strengths.
St. Paul Island being the closest station to the Norge, reported signal strength six. The other two stations reported signal strengths of only four.

All reports received by outlying stations were transmitted to the main office at Cordova.

On the night of the 11th, 12th and 13th, the Norge was called by all naval radio stations of the Alaskan section, intermittently, on various wave lengths."

To aid in preparations for the flight, the naval radio station here commenced broadcasting April 1, a daily weather report regarding conditions in the vicinity of St. Paul Island, Dutch Harbor, Kodiak, Nome and Eagle.

Official and personal messages to members of the crew on board the Norge have been delivered to St. Paul Island, and the navy is transmitting to the airship by the first station making radio contact.

The navy radio system in Alaska centers in a station under command of Lieutenant W. L. Tattersall. The army operates inland stations linking with a signal corps cable running to Seattle, from Alaska.

FALSE REPORT RECEIVED OF ARRIVAL OF NORGE.
San Francisco, May 14.—False reports that the dirigible Norge of the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition had arrived at Nome, Alaska, kept the Pacific coast puzzled Friday night.

Officials of the Federal Telegraph company, operating extensive commercial wires on the coast, said that their operators were advised unofficially that the Norge had arrived.

This was found to be merely a hoax passed along from operator to operator and was without authorization or foundation. The Seattle office of the company reported it originated in San Francisco and the San Francisco office said it started in Seattle.

At 7 p. m. Pacific coast time, the radio station on the 13th naval district headquarters at Bremerton, Wash., reported it had been in constant communication with Cordova, Alaska, and that there was no foundation for reports that the Norge had arrived in Nome.

AMUNDSEN BELIEVED TO BE AT WAINWRIGHT.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 14.—(P)—Friends of Captain Roald Amundsen here, among them Haskon H. Hansen, who was associated with Amundsen in his 1924 polar plans, which failed to materialize, point out that there is every possibility that the Norge is at Wainwright, Alaska. Amundsen's old base where he has a cache of 10 tons of gasoline and other supplies.

Hansen said there is a trading post at Wainwright, and about 200 people in the settlement, a sufficient number to handle the landing of the Norge if Amundsen chose to come down there and take on supplies including gasoline. He said that in such an event the Norge's wireless plant likely would be silent as he understands it depends on wind driven motors for power when its storage batteries play out.

SEATTLE STATIONS FAIL TO GET NORGE.

Seattle, Wash., May 14.—(P)—Radio stations from Seattle northward to Nome were without word today from the dirigible Norge en route from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, to Nome, after having passed over the north pole.

Naval radio operators tried unsuccessfully to communicate with the airship carrying Captain Roald Amundsen and his companions. The Norge should have reached Nome at 8 o'clock last night.

OFFICERS FAVOR TRIP TO POLE.

Washington, May 14.—Suggestions that the Los Angeles be sent on a rescue mission for the Norge received a sudden check here Friday with the announcement that the navy's big dirigible will be tied up at Lakehurst for three weeks for repairs.

This news threw a damper upon the enthusiasm for a rescue trip among some naval air officers, who have been nursing their disappointment that a navy dirigible was not the first to fly over the polar regions and who long for an opportunity to show what the giant ship can do.

Officially, there had been no indication that the navy dirigible would be sent to Alaska, at least at this early stage. Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, said he had not thought of a rescue attempt. But there had been some talk among officers at the navy department.

BELIEVE NORGE SEARCHING FOR LAND.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 14.—The dirigible Norge may be searching for land in the arctic spaces north of Alaska, according to an opinion expressed by Lieutenant Ben Eilison of the Detroit arctic expedition.

Members of the Detroit party here who have been in radio communication with Captain George H. Wilkins at Point Barrow, say there is no doubt the Norge passed over that settlement on the arctic shore early Thursday. They are at a loss to account definitely for her subsequent movements.

Pictures of the airship were obtained by the Wilkins party, they reported. Eilison, who flew with Wilkins as pilot of the monoplane Alaskan until it was wrecked, stated here when the Detroit flew to Point Barrow six days ago. He said Friday that the Norge had gasoline enough to keep her in the air until 2 a. m. Saturday and that the ship's navigators probably intended to reach Nome at about that time.

It was recalled that Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was bombarded last year with suggestions that a dirigible be sent to the rescue of Amundsen, which were turned down. Those suggestions caused some embarrassment to the navy department. Their revival at this time creates a similar situation.

Solution of Coal Problem Depends Upon Truthful Publicity, Declares Hoover

Steady Fact Finding and Government Operation In Emergency Outlined In Program.

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—Steady fact finding activity and provision for government operation in any emergency were outlined today as features of the administration's program for coal legislation.

Secretary Hoover and George Otis Smith, head of the geological survey and a member of the president's coal commission, told the house commerce committee that truthful publicity must be the basis of any effective solution of the coal problem. A measure enlarging the fact finding power of the bureau of mines is being drafted by Chairman Parker of the committee. It is similar in principle to the Copeland measure recently approved by a senate committee.

Secretary Hoover urged that fact finding activity include statistics on production, distribution, stocks, consumption, wages and average prices. The chief ills of the bituminous industry, he said, are too many mines and the seasonal character of the industry, "but regardless of the solution, prevention of periodic suspension of production must come first."

Money Well Spent.
Mr. Smith said the $800,000 spent for the fact finding work of the coal commission was worth it even if the board did nothing but declare itself against government ownership.

Congress should exercise its investigating power more than its legislative authority, he added, to allow publicity to force the industry "to straighten itself out."

Mr. Hoover also said that industry can best solve its own problems, urging that the bituminous industry follow steps taken by anthracite operators and workers in setting up their own mediation board. If the industry will take such a move itself, he added, congress would be justified in suspending any legislative action.

Urging legislation chiefly with a view to coping with emergencies not met by the industry itself, Mr. Hoover advocated creation of an emergency mediation board, emergency authority to the interstate commerce commission in coal distribution and, in failure of provision by the industry, "a more effective service as to primary facts."

Before the house labor committee, creation of a bureau of safety in the department under conditions to keep its work from conflicting with that of the bureau of mines of the commerce department was urged by Ethelberg Stewart, chief of the bureau of labor statistics; R. R. Sayers, chief surgeon of the bureau of mines; E. W. Parker, of Philadelphia and Allan W. Willett, of the National Coal association.

Near East Relief Appeal Is Voiced By Dr. John Voris

Racine, Wis., May 14.—(AP)—For America to discontinue its support of orphan children in the Near East would be a worse tragedy than for this nation to have permitted all of them to perish at the close of the world war. This was the appeal of Dr. John R. Voris, associate general secretary of Near East relief, made before the national council of Protestant Episcopal churches meeting here.

Dr. Voris, just back from a survey of religious and educational conditions in Greece, Syria and Armenia, said he doubted if religious leaders "appreciate the significance of the monster reconstructive program actually in progress in those countries, made possible by donations in America." To quit the work now, he said, would break the morale of both children and adults and deal them a fatal blow.

In five years in the Caucasus alone, American surgeons have healed 22,000 cases of trachoma, he said, and thousands of children are now receiving practical education which in the past was only available to the aristocratic classes.

"America must see this child welfare work through, because it is in the next three years we propose to pick from these children, those who are to be the future leaders of the Near East," he said.

Consideration of plans for reconstruction of St. Luke's international hospital in Tokyo, Japan, destroyed by the earthquake in 1923, engaged the attention of the national council today.

The work has been carried on in temporary buildings since the tremors undermined the structures with a loss of $3,000,000. The church proposes to expend $2,500,000 in addition to $900,000 now available for the building project.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS FORM NEW ASSOCIATION

The National Guard association of Georgia was formed Friday morning at the Service Club building in Camp Jasp. The purpose of the association is to acquaint laymen of the state regarding purposes and benefits of the National Guard and to foster a fraternal spirit among the officers of Georgia, it is said.

Officers are Brigadier General Robert J. Travis, Savannah, president; Lieutenant Colonel William Macon, Major J. D. Seaman, Atlanta; Major W. L. Harwell, Brunswick, vice president; Major W. F. Spratt, Albany, secretary; Lieutenant F. A. Moore, Savannah, treasurer; Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer, Atlanta, registrar.

The following were elected members of the executive committee: Major Fowler, Macon; Captain Sam Slicer, Atlanta; Captain Maddox, Griffin; Captain Greer, Macon; Captain West, Albany; and Lieutenant H. C. Hatcher, Waycross. Others appointed by General Travis are Captain Frank P. McIntire, Savannah; Captain Walter Hendrix, Atlanta; Captain Hines, Augusta; Captain Homer Watkins, Cedartown; Major Drake, Elberton; Captain Lindsay Camp, Marietta; Major Mallett, Jackson.

The association will meet annually at places to be decided each year on the third Friday in May.

300 MANUFACTURERS OF FIXTURES COMING

"As a reaction to Atlanta's extension bureau work by the chamber of commerce, the National Commercial Fixture Manufacturers' association will hold its annual meeting here May 27, 1932, assembling more than 300 fixture manufacturers, stated J. P. Womack, president of J. P. Womack and Sons, Friday. Mr. Womack has returned from Detroit where he attended the annual meeting.

"Although 15 other cities had extended invitations for the convention," continued Mr. Womack, "when I mention Atlanta the vote was unanimous for this city."

"Extensive preparations for the entertainment and social program have begun, and with the cooperation of other members of the organization from Columbus and Montgomery with me, we expect to make the Atlanta convention the largest ever held by this association."

YARAB CHATTERS AT ATLANTA TONIGHT

The Yarab Chatters will make their last public appearance at the Atlanta theater tonight before leaving May 20 for the Shrine imperial council sessions in Philadelphia. The concert will be conducted for the benefit of the Old Ladies' home and is under the auspices of Electa chapter, No. 8, Order of the Eastern Star.

Tickets are on sale at the Cable Piano company and the Atlanta theater box office.

The concert, which is scheduled to begin at 8:30 o'clock, will be directed by Frank Cundell.

DR. LACY CONSIDERS CALL TO VIRGINIA

A call to the presidency of Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., has been extended to Dr. Ben R. Lacy, Jr., pastor of Central Presbyterian church, it became known Friday. Dr. Lacy has taken the call under advisement and, he stated Friday, will give his answer to the trustees within the next few days.

The present is the fifth invitation Dr. Lacy has received from the trustees of this institution in recent years, the previous ones being to places on the faculty.

It is known that there is a strong appeal for acceptance of this call to Dr. Lacy. He is a graduate of the seminary in the class of 1913. His grandfather, the famous Dr. Robert Burwell, founder of Peace institute at Raleigh, N. C., and Queens college at Charlotte, N. C., was graduated from Union Theological seminary exactly 100 years ago, in the class of 1826.

One of the earliest in the history of the college.

Dr. W. W. Moore, president of the seminary for more than 25 years, will retire from active duties, the trustees advised Dr. Lacy, and has been elected president emeritus.

Dr. Lacy completes his seventh year as pastor of Central Presbyterian church on Sunday. During that time he has become one of the most outstanding ministers in the southern Presbyterian church and has won thousands of admirers and friends, both by his power as a preacher and by his remarkable Christian personality.

Prior to accepting the local pastorate, Dr. Lacy served for two years as chaplain of the 113th Field artillery regiment of the Old Hickory division. He served with this division both at Camp Sevier and in France and was known to the men of the regiment as "The Fighting Chaplain."

Prior to the world war Dr. Lacy was engaged in home mission work in Wake county, North Carolina, for several years. He was graduated from Davidson college in 1906. Following his graduation he spent a year as athletic director at the old Donald Fraser Military institute at Decatur.

In the latter part of 1907 he received a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford university, in England, and remained there until 1910. It was then that he entered Union Theological seminary.

ST. LOUIS AND FRISCO PERSONNEL CHANGES

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—(Special.) Three important transfers in the passenger department of the St. Louis and San Francisco railway company were announced today from the general offices here. Changes affect Atlanta, Ga., Dallas, Texas, and Kansas City, Mo., and are effective May 16.

J. B. Morrow, district passenger agent for Frisco lines at Dallas, Texas, is appointed general agent, passenger department at Atlanta, Ga.; W. H. Davidson, traveling passenger agent at Kansas City, Mo., is appointed district passenger agent at Dallas; R. C. Gentry, general agent of the passenger department at Atlanta, is transferred to Kansas City, Mo., as traveling passenger agent.

Mr. Morrow entered Frisco service in January, 1903, as city ticket agent at Fort Worth, Texas. In 1905 he was made traveling passenger agent at San Antonio, and in 1908 he was promoted to southwestern passenger agent at Dallas. He received a wartime appointment in 1918 to the consolidated ticket offices at Dallas, Texas, and returned to Frisco proper on October 1, 1920, as city ticket agent at Dallas. On March 1, 1922, he was promoted to district passenger agent at Dallas.

Mr. Davidson is also a veteran of Frisco lines, entering service with his company 20 years ago, beginning as ticket agent for the Frisco-Rock Island, at Fort Worth, Texas.

Mr. Gentry has been in the employ of the Frisco for 16 years, beginning as passenger ticket agent in the Fort Smith, Ark., offices. He had charge of the Atlanta office for six years before his transfer on May 16 to Kansas City, Mo.

MAN FOUND DEAD ON CHURCH STEPS DIED OF APOPLEXY

Jack Taylor, 70, who was found dead on the door steps of a church building at East Huron and Fort streets Thursday night, died from apoplexy, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest held Friday afternoon at the undertaking chapel of J. Austin Dillon, 344 South Prior street.

Police investigating his death had suspected that he was the victim of poison liquor furnished by bootleggers, as they found a half-pint bottle in his pocket, half full of corn liquor.

Taylor came to Atlanta from Macon, Ga., a card in his pocket showing that he had been treated in a hospital in that town some weeks ago. According to advices from that city he lived there several months, leaving to go to Birmingham, Ala., via Atlanta.

He is said to have relatives in Birmingham and also in Pennsylvania. Funeral services will not be completed until out-of-town relatives can be communicated with.

BUILDING PERMITS TOTAL $77,240,811

Building permits totaled $77,240,811 for 104 cities in the 16 southeastern states during the month of April, according to the survey department of G. L. Miller & Co. The figures made public Friday show a slight decrease from the March total, but clearly indicate a continuance of the big construction program in this section.

In the 10 most southerly states, a gain of 30 per cent over the corresponding month for 1921 is shown, the figures being $33,285,635, against $44,325,231. Florida and Texas in particular showed large totals.

PRESIDENTS' CLUB TO HONOR NOTABLE GUESTS AT DINNER

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Lupton, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and their son, Cartier Lupton, will be guests of honor at a dinner to be given by the Presidents' club of Atlanta on the evening of May 28 at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Lupton are to be honored in recognition of their gift to Oglethorpe university of Lupton hall, representing a value of about $400,000.

"This is probably the largest gift ever made to a southern college outside the city and state in which the donor lives," said Dr. Thorndell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university.

Members of the Presidents' club and honor guests will be accompanied by their wives, Mr. Paxon stated. Several prominent men identified with the upbuilding of Oglethorpe will be invited.

Atlanta Climate Constant From 1879 Through 1925

Atlanta for 46 years has enjoyed almost exactly the same general 12 months of weather year in and year out, it was announced from the local office of the United States weather bureau Friday. Despite reported shifts of oceanic currents and rumored changes of a geologic nature, the weather here has kept smiling right along in the same old way ever since establishment of the weather bureau office here.

This fact was brought out Friday in a resume of temperatures compiled by C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, covering 46 years. Prior to 1879 no official records were kept and the weather bureau was established in that year. Persons drawing conclusions that the climate is changing are in error, the report reveals.

"Reports have been broadcast that winters are milder now because of little snowfall during the past 10 to 15 years," said Mr. von Herrmann. "But the records show a variation of only 30 of a degree or entirely within the limits of possible instrumental errors in thermometers. The mean temperature has not changed at all, despite the fact that there have been fluctuations from 67 degrees in 1885 to 72.5 in 1921, a range of differentiation of 5.50 degrees. Our conclusion is that our warm and cold winters and summers balanced exactly during the last 47 years. No change has occurred, only temporary fluctuations."

"Our summary includes many severe and mild winters and warm and cool summers. In 1879 the daily mean temperature was 70.04 degrees. This is the sum of the daily temperatures divided by 365, the number of days. Continuing the process to the end of 1925, we get our average. It was learned on completing the com-

COMMUNITY CHEST TO MEET MONDAY

The annual meeting of the Community Chest will be held in assembly hall No. 2 of the Chamber of Commerce building Monday night at 8 o'clock. The program committee is making an effort to secure a speaker of national reputation for the meeting. It was announced Friday. All members of the chest or its agencies are urged to attend.

putation that the mean temperature from 1879 to 1925, inclusive, is 70.4 or exactly the same as that for the first year on record. The fluctuations have included 70.10 degrees for the period 1879-1892 and 69.8 for the period 1879-1906.

Atlanta's weather is one of the strongest points in attracting new citizens and hundreds of persons have become residents on this account alone, it was pointed out. It will be recalled that General Leonard Wood remarked a few years ago that within a radius of 200 miles around Atlanta the best climate in the world is found for general living conditions.

TOURIST ROAD SIGNS APPROVED BY CLUB

Approval of the movement of the Atlanta Motor club to erect signs on all roads leading into Atlanta, welcoming visitors to the city, has been given in many letters received by the club. O. L. Haymond, secretary, announced Friday. The signs, 30 by 40 inches, are mounted on strong posts, eight feet high and extend a cordial welcome in Atlanta to all motorists and visitors entering the city by any road.

Had skin troubles bad was ashamed to appear in public
Resinol completely healed it

Entriken, Pa., March 4.—"Last summer I had a skin affection on my face, hands and arms. It kept spreading until I could not shave and hated to be seen in public. The itching was very annoying and nothing I tried gave me any relief. A friend recommended your Resinol Ointment and I bought some at once. The first application gave me relief, but I continued using it freely and in a very short time the itching disappeared and the trouble was completely cured. Needless to say, I have great faith in 'Resinol' for skin disorders." (Signed) J. H. Ketterman.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

By U.S. Patent Office

SYNOPSIS.
The Parks, Hudson Bay company agent at Moose Lake, is greatly disturbed by a news item in an English paper announcing the coming marriage of Alistair Grant to Eileen Grant and referring to the prospective bridegroom as the heir presumptive to Lord Oban. The publisher's only son, John Bridgworth Pantan, had disappeared some years before and his death is about to be pronounced by law. Parks decides to leave Moose Lake and go back to England.

INSTALLMENT VI.
With a resignation which the fashionable gathering at St. Margaret's took for the self-reliant attitude of a thoroughly modern young woman, Eileen was married to her somewhat corpulent Alistair, and cut the wedding cake with smiling composure, and received the congratulations of half the aristocracy of Scotland at the reception which, by arrangement, was held at a big hotel in the west end of London. At last the bride, who certainly looked most charming in her wedding attire, was free to hurry to a dressing room where she would change her clothing for a four hours' run by car to Cromer, where the first part of the honeymoon was to be spent.

A maid from her own rather small house was in waiting with all manner of trunks and dress baskets, some of which were to be strapped onto the roof and back of the limousine, while others would be disposed of later when Mr. and Mrs. Pantan took up residence at Inverlochle, which Lord Oban meant practically to vacate in their favor for the remainder of the year.

Of course, this young woman, who had known Eileen since she was a child, being, indeed, only a year or two older, was voluble as to the bride's good looks and the success of the ceremonial generally. But, like lightning from a summer sky, came one stupefying statement:

"What a pity it is, miss—I beg your pardon, I mean ma'am—that the wedding could not be put off till Master John came home!" said she, stooping to lock a trunk in which the satin and Brussels lace and orange blossom had been carefully packed.

Eileen caught her breath, but contrived to say calmly: "Master John? Are you dreaming, Maggie? Master John has not been heard of for years, and it is supposed that he died before the war ended."

"O, but he didn't, miss," came the ready assurance. "It's all in the papers on 'y this very mornin'." He's alive and well in Canada, and is comin' home to claim his aunt's legacy."

An ice cold hand seemed to clutch Eileen's heart, but her upbringing had made it part of her very life that no subordinate should be allowed to witness her tribulation.

"Are you quite sure of what you are saying, Maggie?" she inquired, and her voice was so well under control that the maid little suspected what torment her words had caused.

"Jack? Are you alluding to that blackguard, John Pantan?"

"O, yes, miss—how silly of me—I keep forgettin'—"

"Never mind that. Did you yourself read this today in a newspaper?"

"Yes, miss. Indeed I did."

"Do you think you could get a copy of that paper now, or of any paper containing a similar paragraph?"

"I don't know, miss—ma'am—but I can try."

"O, hurry, hurry! Leave that trunk. It can be closed and locked afterward. Don't fail me now, Maggie. I must know the truth before I go away. You see, it means so much to one's future—at Inverlochle."

Maggie, a trifle scared by the storm she had raised, went out, and it was just as well, because Eileen had to struggle hard against a very definite inclination to drop on the floor in a dead faint. Possibly she succeeded in warding off some such collapse by inflicting on herself a physical rigor almost hysterical in its fierce tension. At any rate, she kept her senses and was able to read and understand a cabled synopsis of the startling news dispatched from far away Edmonton the previous afternoon.

Like responds to like. Just as John Pantan had decided in the twinkling of an eye to brave every sort of contumely if thereby he could serve this girl, so now did Eileen resolve that never, never would she come under the sway of the man who had striven so long and unceasingly to supplant her lover.

With all the clarity of a woman's intuition, she realized that both her father and her husband must have conspired to keep her in ignorance of the real facts in regard to the missing heir. Very well. They must be taught that she was not a child to be hoodwinked at will. She must make sure of her ground at once. After that no law, no convention, no argument of expediency would coerce her into being Alistair Pantan's wife.

She would die first.

"Maggie," she said, quietly, "it is rather important that Colonel Grant should come here as soon as possible. I must have a few words with him, and with him alone. That is to say, I do not wish to see Mr. Pantan until we send for him. Please get hold of my father and give him that message, will you?"

A man may have the reputation of being a martinet, but it does not necessarily follow that he will display in a crisis those qualities of fortitude and self-control which he exacts from others. If, when his own test comes, he is conscious of a departure from the accepted standard of honorable dealing, he will probably be far more conscience-stricken than the happy-go-lucky fellow who pleads that "he did it for the best" and expects sympathy rather than condemnation from the person he has injured.

It was so now with Colonel Grant. He was not quite sure why his daughter wanted him so urgently, yet he entered her room with a most disagreeable knowledge that he understood at last how some wretched delinquent felt when haled before him in the old regimental days. He tried to conceal his uneasiness by an assumption of genial impudence, and did not even close the door.

"What's the matter, Eileen?" he cried, with a weak imitation of a smile. "There's not much time, you know. Everybody is waiting downstairs, and you ought to make a start in ten minutes, or less."

His daughter's manner puzzled him. She was pale, but showed no other signs of distress. Rather was she calm and completely mistress of herself.

"Please shut and lock the door," she said. "I shall not detain you long, but our talk must not be interrupted."

He obeyed, with an implied protest.

"For goodness' sake, child, what has gone wrong?" he demanded.

"Everything, I am afraid. Since when, father, have you known that Jack was alive?"

"Jack? Are you alluding to that blackguard, John Pantan?"

"Suppose, for once, you answer my question straightforwardly. Or are you really aware that he is living and actually on his way home?"

"Who the devil cares where he is?"

"So you do know. Did you get the information from this morning's newspapers, or were you told earlier?"

Colonel Grant hesitated. In very truth, he was so taken aback that he could not find words. He wanted badly to rage and bluster, but a certain shrewdness of mind warned him that this would be his worst possible course.

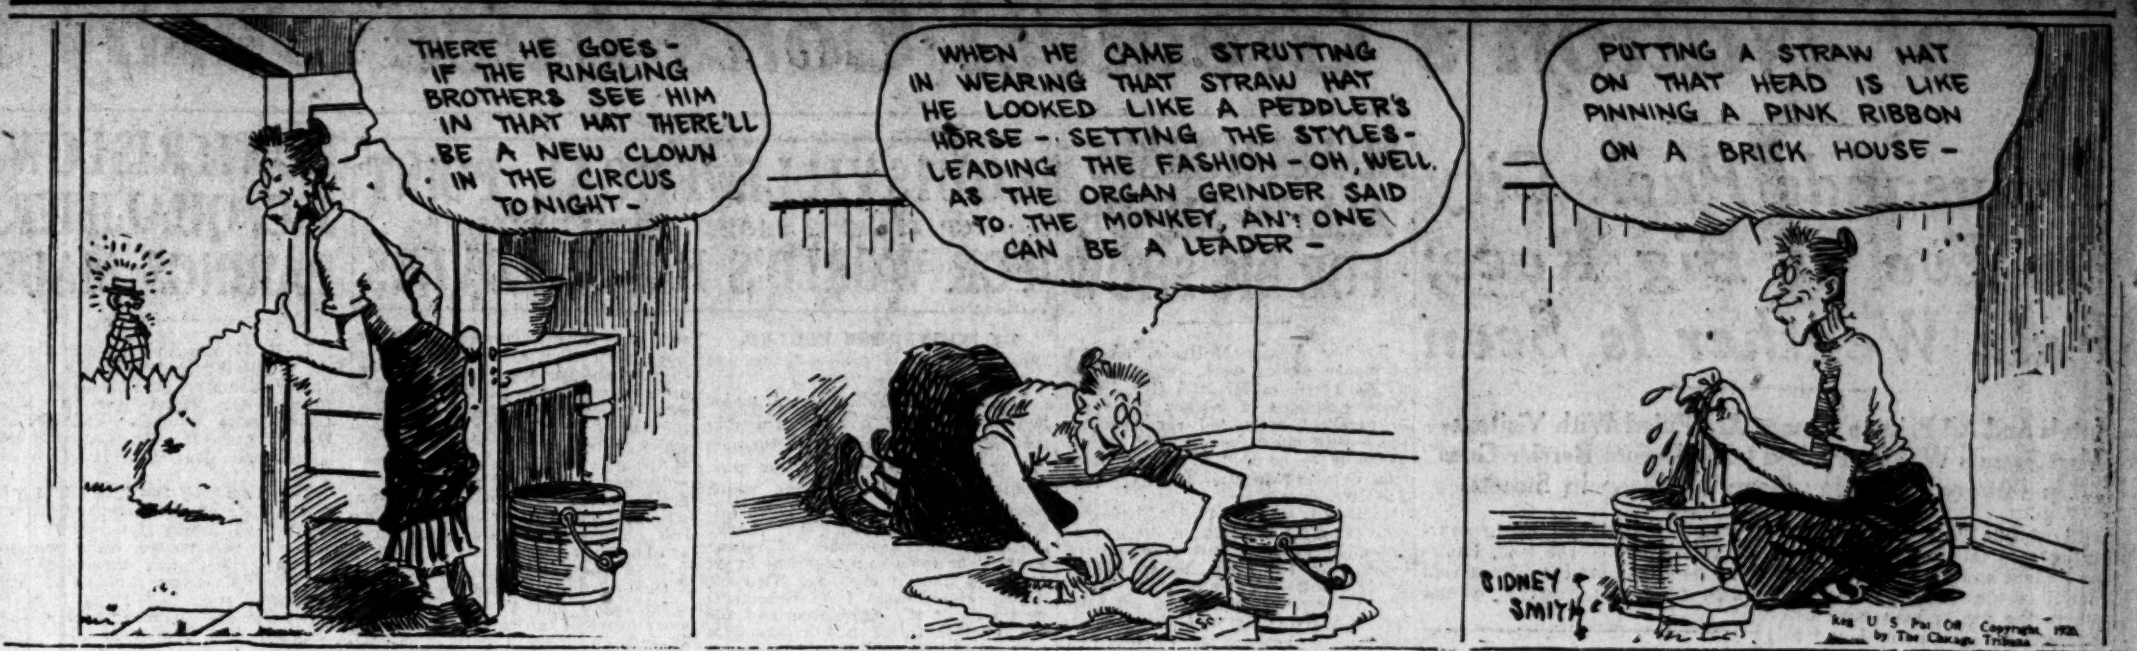

"Look here, Eileen," he began, "what earthly use is there in—"

She stopped him with a most disconcerting air of command.

"There is certainly no use in argument," she said. "I ask for facts, the plain truth, and you refuse to give them. Very well. I must assume that you, and Alistair, and Lord Oban, and heaven alone knows how many other folk classed as gentlemen, not to speak of those of my own sex, whom I have regarded all my life as friends, have entered into a conspiracy of silence against me. It says here—and for the first time the sorely perplexed colonel saw a newspaper which Eileen had purposely hidden under a wrap thrown over the back of a chair—"it says here that Jack cabled the president of the probate court early yesterday from some place in Alberta called Abasaba, where the Canadian press did not get hold of him until much later in the day. I am losing faith in men, but I still have a shred of confidence left in the uprightness of our judges, and I am sure Lord Mountford did not waste a needless moment in communicating such a vital thing to those interested. So Alistair and Lord Oban and you knew yesterday, and all the world knows this morning, that which was willfully withheld from me—withheld till too late."

Atlanta Federation Asks Increase in Policewomen

The Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs adopted resolutions Friday asking for an increase in the number of policewomen in Atlanta, expressing satisfaction in the work done by the two policewomen now employed but stated the belief that conditions in Atlanta were such that two women were entirely inadequate to handle the situation and that the number should be materially increased.

Approval was expressed of the movement now before the school board for better and larger quarters for the Opportunity school and service of the members of the board of the splendid results now being obtained by the school and its teachers.

Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president of the federation and only woman member of the bond commission, spoke of a survey just made by the school committee of the bond commission and the magnificent work being accomplished in the schools with the inadequate and uncomfortable buildings now being occupied in some places.

Messages were sent to the Georgia senators urging their support of the Sheppard-Towner bill which has passed the house. A resolution protesting against the sale of salacious publications and a resolution urging the passage of necessary laws to make zoning legal in Atlanta were adopted. Indorsement of the movement to erect a monument to Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie in Authors' Grove and recommendation that a contribution be made to same by the federation were adopted.

Miss Sharp Recommended.
Mrs. W. L. Percy, first vice president, sent her resignation owing to other duties and Mrs. Norman Sharp was recommended by the nominating committee to fill the unexpected term. Mrs. Rambo spoke of the great work Mrs. Sharp has done as president of the Atlanta Woman's club and expressed her gratification in having Mrs. Sharp as vice president. Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, chairman of applied education, resigned her chairmanship after 18 years of efficient service, owing to her recent election to the presidency of the Atlanta Woman's club, which will require all her time. All members of the federation who will attend the meeting Wednesday, May 19, at 10 o'clock at the Druid Hills Golf club, are reminded to make reservations for luncheon with Mrs. E. V. Carter, Dearborn 2501-J as the management will not accept reservations later than that date. Lunch will be $1.

Atlanta Writers' Club Has Meeting.

The Atlanta Writers' club met on Thursday evening for its regular dinner program. C. A. Hartman spoke on "The Philosophy of Language." Mr. Hartman stated that he believed words could be so arranged categorically that a person with only an elementary education could soon learn to talk very forcibly. He presented a manuscript which he has prepared for publication with a most unique arrangement of words according to a table diagram, with the various synonyms grouped below.

One of the most delightful features of entertainment were the dance numbers given by Miss Robert Jester Harbour and Miss Sarah Sharp, pupils of Mrs. Spiker. The club is indebted to Mrs. Spiker for furnishing this delightful form of entertainment.

Mrs. Julia E. Cope made an interesting short talk on the Authors' Grove, bringing before the members of the Writers' club the importance of this work, and their responsibility in helping carry it on.

Miss Mary Brent Whiteside was present at the meeting and was most enthusiastically welcomed back to the club. Miss Whiteside had as her guest Miss Agnes Kendrick Gray, a distinguished writer. Miss Gray, at the request of Dr. Melton, gave some most interesting readings, one of the most beautiful being "To a Dancer of Long Ago."

A number of other interesting poems and short sketches were read. Considerable business was brought before the club, and committees appointed to dispense with it.

Mrs. Arthur Tufts invited the members of the club to a garden party to be given at her home in Druid Hills. The members voted enthusiastically to accept the invitation for its June meeting.

The club was fortunate in having Dr. and Mrs. Melton back for the Thursday evening dinner. Dr. and Mrs. Melton have been in Florida for the winter and have been missed by the club.

Nashville, Tenn., May 14.—(P)—The 400 delegates from 92 cities attending the national convention of the Junior League of America, snatched time today amid the social whirl in Nashville, famed for its southern hospitality, to elect officers, and selected Portland, Ore., as the next convention city.

Mrs. Charlton Palmer, of Brooklyn, was chosen president of the national organization. She succeeds Mrs. Charles S. Brown, Jr., of New York, the retiring president, who presided over the concluding business session today, and before turning over the gavel was accorded a rousing vote of thanks for her efficient administration.

Mrs. Palmer headed the list of nominations made by the nominating committee early in the spring, to compose the new officers, and that list went through the sessions without change. The delegates from the United States, Canada and Honolulu, were guests in the socially prominent homes in Nashville during their stay. They attended country club luncheons, those who desired participating in golf and tennis, and the social life was extended in the convention whirl.

Questions of national import affecting the future of the league were discussed during the convention. An interchange of ideas between the various leagues was considered helpful. All, in their expressions from the floor of the convention, indicated an eagerness to render every possible civic educational and economic service to the nation as a whole and particularly to their individual communities.

Shortly after a mid-day luncheon at Belle Meade club today a number of the delegates left for the Kentucky Derby and others departed on later trains for their homes.

One of the resolutions placed before the convention by the Atlanta delegation is expected to become a major point of discussion in future conventions. Mrs. Charles Orme, of Atlanta, said. The resolution provides that all new leagues, applicants for membership in the national body, be made provisional contingents for a period of five years before being formally admitted. There was no action on the resolution, but Mrs. Orme thought it would be adopted within another year or so.

The Atlanta delegates also made mention of the fact that their club

Miss Elizabeth Stutzky. These committee ladies will be assisted by the other ladies of the Immaculate Conception parish and by the members of the I. C. club.

There will be one table-prize and four favors for each table, and a large number of lovely general prizes, including a permanent wave, an order for the beautiful photographs and a handsome set of monogrammed bridge cards.

Delicious home-made cakes and candies will be for sale during the afternoon. Those desiring reservations may make same by communicating with either Mrs. P. G. Keeney at Main 3496-J, or Mrs. J. J. Kuhn at Main 6337.

Memorial Ball Will Be Given May 24.

Mr. Edenhorn was born in Westphalia, Prussia, March 20, 1848, and came to the United States in 1867. After residing in Pittsburgh and Cincinnati he moved to St. Louis in 1870 and there with F. M. Blackshear, Ga., May 14.—(P)—Miss Agnes Memory, nurse and sister of Senator Memory, narrowly escaped death when she sustained painful injuries as a result of a collision between her automobile and a freight train near here last night.

Miss Memory, who was attending a patient in Blackshear, started home shortly after 6 o'clock. It was raining and this was believed to be a contributing cause of the collision. The freight engine struck the rear of the car, twisting it around and forcing Miss Memory through the windshield. She was painfully cut by broken glass about the face and the throat.

Bainbridge, Ga., May 14.—(Special.)—Transfer and sales of real estate here totaled approximately $30,939 within the last few days according to real estate men. Most of the sales were of farm lands to be used for small farm acreage.

How to make Strawberry Jam keep the color and flavor of the fresh berries

Your jam will taste enough like fresh berries to use in strawberry shortcake if you make it this new, easy, short-boil way with Certo. Save the following recipe to use for your first batch of strawberry jam.

Cut in halves lengthwise with stainless knife about 2 quarts of small or medium-sized fully ripe berries. After halving, weigh out 2 lbs. berries, or measure 4½ level cups of berries, packing solidly into the cup until juice and fruit come to the top of the cup. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 2 or 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir repeatedly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire, to cool slightly. Pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot melted paraffin.

The short boiling time, possible only with Certo, prevents the loss of delicate flavor and the darkening in color which used to occur during the old long boil. It also gives you a larger amount of jam, since you save the large quantity of juice which used to boil away.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellifying substance of fruit refined and bottled. A book of simple recipes comes with each bottle.

Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Address Douglas-Pectin Corporation, 1939 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y. (adv.)

Mayflower Takes Coolidge To Williamsburg, Virginia, Sesqui-Centennial Exercises

President Will Speak at Exercises, Commemorating Virginia's Resolution of Independence.

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—President Coolidge, aboard the Mayflower, was enroute tonight on the lower Potomac, bound for Williamsburg, Va., where he will speak tomorrow at Sesqui-centennial exercises, commemorating the Virginia resolution of independence.

It was on May 15, 1776, that the Virginia house of burgesses adopted resolutions instructing their delegates to the continental congress to work for the independence of the American colonies from Great Britain, the first action along this line taken by any of the colonies.

Accompanying the president are Mrs. Coolidge and a number of guests, including Senator and Mrs. Swanson, Senator Glass, and Representative and Mrs. Montague of Virginia, Secretary Sanders, C. Bascom Slemp, of Virginia, former secretary, and Colonel Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, agent for the American-Mexican mixed claims commission.

The Mayflower sailed shortly after noon, Rob Roy, one of the two white house coaches, sailing at going on the ship. He finally yielded to sharp tugging on the leath by the president, but, once aboard, the dog attempted to back down the gang plank as the president he will receive with hand to his straw hat while the ship's band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

The presidential party is to land at Yorktown, Va., tomorrow morning, and proceed by automobile a dozen miles to Williamsburg, where the exercises will begin at 11 o'clock.

After lunch, the president intends to return to the Mayflower and probably will spend the week-end on the yacht, arriving in Washington Monday morning.

The trip is the first Mr. Coolidge has made to deliver an address since he became president, when he went to Chicago, while at Williamsburg he will receive the degree of doctor of laws.

Amusements

Keith's Forsyth.

"Character Song Impressions" is the title of a unique act offered at Keith's Forsyth, in which Pauline Ruxon and her company have won much applause.

A pleasing variety of patter songs and dances. Another good attraction is the appearance of the Texas Four, a quartet remembered pleasantly by many Atlantans who have heard them on previous tours.

The singers are remarkable humorists as well. Other features of the bill include "Five Minutes From the Stage," comedy sketches by Billie Baker and company in "Variety," and Bessie Clifford, who is in number of stunts.

Miss Clifford is an artist's sister with final showings this afternoon and evening.

"Watch Your Wife" places romance on a business basis and is featured by striking sets and costumes.

"Braveheart," with handsome Rod LaRoue as the young Indian hero who takes up the life of the palisade only to face death.

The feature at the Rialto next week.

The Howard.

The Broadway stage revue which Public Theaters corporation is presenting for the last time today at the Howard theater, is "The Garden of Girls," in which each girl in the cast represents a flower in a garden, while the boys, gardeners, introduce them to the audience.

The dances were arranged by Boris Petroff, with costumes and settings by Hermann Rosse.

One million dollars, inherited by Kellys, starts the action which makes "The Garden of Girls" a comedy drama. The cast includes Charlie Murray, George Sidney, Vera Gordon and Kate Price.

Another big event which is sure to attract great crowds to the greater Howard tonight is The Constitution-Public Charleston beauty tournament finals. This tournament, in which many of the city's best Charlestoners have participated, has created quite a bit of interest throughout the city and thousands of Atlantans are watching the outcome with keen interest.

LANDMARK READY FOR CEREMONIES.

Williamsburg, Va., May 14.—(AP)—This historic old landmark, for the past century and a half scene in its environment of college activities and constructive community building, today was agog with excitement in anticipation of tomorrow's celebration, and indications tonight were that by tomorrow morning it would be galvanized into full-fledged carnival atmosphere.

The tranquility will be given a lift when a salute of 21 guns boom out in welcome to the president of the United States, who will arrive in the presidential party tomorrow morning at the sesqui-centennial anniversary celebration of the passage of the famous Virginia resolutions.

Immediately upon the arrival of the presidential party and the firing of the salute, the chief executive will speak from the rear of Christopher Wren building, Secretary of the State, Secretary Sanders, C. Bascom Slemp, of Virginia, former secretary, and Colonel Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, agent for the American-Mexican mixed claims commission.

The Mayflower sailed shortly after noon, Rob Roy, one of the two white house coaches, sailing at going on the ship. Cotton Market Rallies On Showers in Texas chief factor on the advance was the weather.

Exports for the day, 24,172, making 72,274 so far this season.

Report of cold rains in the west started prices upward soon after the opening and although the census bureau's consumption report for April showing that domestic mills had consumed 15,000 bales less than the preceding month and also less than in April last year caused a momentary dip, values were soon on the upgrade.

The advance continued into the afternoon, cotton futures rising and turning to show at Fort Worth and El Paso, Texas. At the highest of the afternoon prices showed gains over the previous close of 18 to 20 points.

At the start the market was slightly higher, but soon after the opening it lost 1 to 2 points on old crop months and net gains of 1 to 3 points on new crop positions. Prices eased and cotton futures closed at 17.71 to 17.72 for July and 17.02 for October, or 1 to 3 points under yesterday's close.

These figures were below expectations, but did not attract much comment and after early offerings had been absorbed prices steadied on the close.

The official western belt forecast was favorable, with much rain in the cotton belt and Texas and beneficial showers were reported in the eastern belt, but local traders seemed doubtful of the weather.

The week-end statistics showing a decrease of 70,011 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton for the week compared with 208,622 last year were considered bearish, but evidently had little effect on the market.

The later labor news from England was more favorable, but the chief factor on the advance was the weather.

The later labor news from England was more favorable, but the chief factor on the advance was the weather.

Exports for the day, 24,172, making 72,274 so far this season.

Report of cold rains in the west started prices upward soon after the opening and although the census bureau's consumption report for April showing that domestic mills had consumed 15,000 bales less than the preceding month and also less than in April last year caused a momentary dip, values were soon on the upgrade.

TREND UPWARD AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, May 14.—(AP)—The cotton market developed a fair degree of activity today, with a general trend of prices was upward following a light recession of a couple of points right at the start.

Report of cold rains in the west started prices upward soon after the opening and although the census bureau's consumption report for April showing that domestic mills had consumed 15,000 bales less than the preceding month and also less than in April last year caused a momentary dip, values were soon on the upgrade.

The advance continued into the afternoon, cotton futures rising and turning to show at Fort Worth and El Paso, Texas. At the highest of the afternoon prices showed gains over the previous close of 18 to 20 points.

At the start the market was slightly higher, but soon after the opening it lost 1 to 2 points on old crop months and net gains of 1 to 3 points on new crop positions. Prices eased and cotton futures closed at 17.71 to 17.72 for July and 17.02 for October, or 1 to 3 points under yesterday's close.

These figures were below expectations, but did not attract much comment and after early offerings had been absorbed prices steadied on the close.

The official western belt forecast was favorable, with much rain in the cotton belt and Texas and beneficial showers were reported in the eastern belt, but local traders seemed doubtful of the weather.

The week-end statistics showing a decrease of 70,011 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton for the week compared with 208,622 last year were

New York, May 14.—(P)—

Driveling activity and a gradual downward movement of prices marked today's colorful bond trading. The normal flow of investment buying orders held the market firm in the early trading but later increased money rates were marked up for over the week-end.

Foreign obligations were depressed by unsettled developments abroad. Unsettledness over the Polish revolution accounted for further liquidation of this group's bonds, both the 6 and 8 per cent issues selling around the 90 level. Italian obligations were eased off coincident with the sharp break in the lira to a 1200 low rate and French issues drifted lower with the exchange. German obligations were steady with the exception of Rhine-Ruhr 10s, which lost a point.

Trading in domestic issues was featured by the weakness of Western sugar bonds, the 7 per cent issue of 1941 dropping 11 points on a larger minimum price for the year. Sugar issues eased off fractionally, from reports of unstable conditions in the trade, there was nothing to explain the drop.

Railroad issues headed toward higher levels in the early trading but subsequently lost most of their gains. Atlantic Coast Line and Delaware and Hudson 4s both fell back to their starting points. Other points of heaviness included Commercial Cable 4s and Anacostia Copper 7s.
